

From Golden Harbor

Pinterest gone RIGHT! This is a project that hasn't stopped. If you haven't visited our home yet, we have an amazing activity room with two sides being all windows. We LOVE the sunlight, but at times, like when you're really concentrating on your Bingo card, it can be distracting. To diffuse those piercing rays, we made these easy-peasy "stained glass" rectangles using only 3 items: plastic sheet protectors, tissue paper, and Mod Podge. The residents were able to do it themselves, and they're still doing it! They want enough to go all around so I've left the materials out and the stack of "stained glass" is growing. So easy, so pretty, and it makes everyone so happy! That's what I call a Pinterest Win!

Bryan Johnson of Heartland Home & Hospice brought us boxes, paper, stickers, embellishments, and even glue to help our residents make personalized memory boxes for all their special keepsakes. It was an hour of fun, laughter, and great conversation. It's a purposeful craft that I'm sure to repeat, because hey... birthdays, holidays, Christmas... happen every year.

MEOW! Here at Golden Harbor, we definitely prefer kitty love vs. Cupid love. The Humane Society volunteers brought a few fur babies to visit and our residents made them purr with lots of affection. Pictured is Larry Martin petting one of the cats - don't let those big green eyes fool you. She was lovin' it!
