WALKING IN THEIR SHOES

Dementia isn't just the forgetting of people, places and things. It is a breakdown of the brain and therefore the brain's ability to help the body function on many different levels, including communication, swallowing, walking, spatial planning and countless other areas of daily life.

It is hard to comprehend what some one with dementia goes through. The Aging and Disability Resource Center of Dodge County is offering a look into the lives of those with dementia. Put yourself in the shoes of someone suffering from cognitive impairment. The event is open to the community, care staff and family caregivers. Please see information sheet to the right for details and reservations or call 920-386-3580.
